

Drunken Butterfly (Mads Langer, 2011)

Form: AABABB

So the're places I don't wanna go
And answers to questions I don't wanna know
It is in my sunken eyes
That the mirror reveals my disguise

There's an ocean of faces right in front of me
And a million miles to go before I sleep
I'm a drunken butterfly
All my nightmares refuse to die

'Cause I have never ever been so alone
And nothing has ever felt so safe in me, no no

I am wasting time on foolish cinematic dreams
I see my future running on a broken silver screen
I'm walking on a sunken road
Waiting for my head to explode

And I have never ever been so alone
And nothing has ever felt so safe in me, no no

Oh 'cause I have never ever been so alone
No nothing has ever felt so safe in me, no no
